However, a recent survey suggests that there is a more pressing concern – it ' s actually the pressure of not having the perfect smile that is giving children nightmares. A survey of 1500 British parents found that 18% of children aged five and under have had nightmares about their oral health, while 12% have experienced nightmares so bad that they have woken up.

A Childs Nightmare by Joel Janikowski on Amazon Music ... Sometimes nightmares are part of a child's reaction to trauma — such as a natural disaster, accident, or injury. For some kids, especially those with a good imagination, reading scary books or watching scary movies or TV shows just before bedtime can inspire nightmares.
