Six Cousins At Mistletoe Farm

Poetry in Six Cousins at Mistletoe Farm As a child, I assumed that the poetry quoted by Aunt Linnie and Cyril was composed by Enid Blyton! Only later on in life did I realise that that was not the case, when I recognised some lines from Milton!

Six Cousins at Mistletoe Farm by Enid Blyton

Basically, the gist is that three city kids go to live with their three cousins on a farm after their house burns down, where they get up to loads of shenanigans involving poaching, poetry and getting over a totally rational fear of fire.

The Mistletoe Farm - Wikipedia

Brief Summary by Fiona Brough: After a fire at their home, Cyril, Melisande and Roderick are hastily sent to stay with their aunt, uncle and cousins on their farm. The three arrivals are somewhat spoiled and affected, and find it very tough to live on a working farm with their cousins Jane, Jack and Susan who have their own faults.

Six Cousins at Mistletoe Farm / Six Cousins Again

The Six Cousins books are "family" books rather than "farm" books, focussing on the children and the crises they face — crises that may be the making or breaking of them. Adult characters play a significant role and the stories are laden with drama and full of comparisons and contrasts, making them a gripping and unusually poignant read.
